Learn Czech

Czech (/tʃɛk/; Czech čeština [tʃɛʃtina]), historically also Bohemian^[5] (/boʊhiːmiən, b-;/^[6] lingua Bohemica in Latin), is a West Slavic language of the Czech–Slovak group, written in Latin script.^[5] Spoken by over 10 million people, it serves as the official language of the Czech Republic. Czech is closely related to Slovak, to the point of high mutual intelligibility, as well as to Polish to a lesser degree.^[7] Czech is a fusional language with a rich system of morphology and relatively flexible word order. Its vocabulary has been extensively influenced by Latin and German.

The Czech–Slovak group developed within West Slavic in the high medieval period, and the standardization of Czech and Slovak within the Czech–Slovak dialect continuum emerged in the early modern period. In the later 18th to mid-19th century, the modern written standard became codified in the context of the Czech National Revival. The main non-standard variety, known as Common Czech, is based on the vernacular of Prague, but is now spoken as an interdialect throughout most of the Czech Republic. The Moravian dialects spoken in the eastern part of the country are also classified as Czech, although some of their eastern variants are closer to Slovak.

Benefits of Learning Czech

Because it's an amazing language.

Because it would rule to order a beer in the pub in Czech!

Because you will need it if you want to travel around the Czech Republic.

Because not everybody speaks English in the Czech Republic.

Because Czech is a gateway to other European languages.

CEFR PROFICIENCY LEVEL

LEVEL A1

Spoken interaction

You can interact in a simple way provided the other person is prepared to repeat or rephrase things at a slower rate of speech and help me formulate what you are trying to say. You can ask and answer simple questions in areas of immediate need or on very familiar topics.

Spoken production

You can use simple phrases and sentences to describe where you live and people you know.

Listening

You can recognise familiar words and very basic phrases concerning yourself, your family and immediate concrete surroundings when people speak slowly and clearly.

Writing

You can write a short, simple postcard, for example sending holiday greetings. You can fill in forms with personal details, for example entering my name, nationality and address on a hotel registration form.

Reading

You can understand familiar names, words and very simple sentences, for example notices and posters or in catalogues.

LEVEL A2

Spoken interaction

You can communicate in simple and routine tasks requiring a simple and direct exchange of information on familiar topics and activities.

You can handle very short social exchanges, even though I can't usually understand enough to keep the conversation going yourself.

Spoken production

You can use a series of phrases and sentences to describe in simple terms your family and other people, living conditions, your educational background and your present or most recent job.

Listening

You can understand phrases and the highest frequency vocabulary related to areas of most immediate personal relevance (e.g. very basic personal and family information, shopping, local area, employment). You can catch the main point in short, clear, simple messages and announcements.

Writing

You can write short, simple notes and messages relating to matters in areas of immediate needs. You can write a very simple personal letter, for example thanking someone for something.

Reading

You can read very short, simple texts. You can find specific, predictable information in simple everyday material such as advertisements, prospectuses, menus and timetables and you can understand short simple personal letters.

LEVEL B1

Spoken interaction

You can deal with most situations likely to arise whilst travelling in an area where the language is spoken. You can enter unprepared into conversation on topics that are familiar, of personal interest or pertinent to everyday life (e.g. family, hobbies, work, travel and current events).

Spoken production

You can connect phrases in a simple way in order to describe experiences and events, your dreams, hopes and ambitions. You can briefly give reasons and explanations for opinions and plans. You can narrate a story or relate the plot of a book or film and describe your reactions.

Listening

You can understand the main points of clear standard speech on familiar matters regularly encountered in work, school, leisure, etc.

You can understand the main point of many radio or TV programmes on current affairs or topics of personal or professional interest when the delivery is relatively slow and clear.

Writing

You can write simple connected text on topics which are familiar or of personal interest. You can write personal letters describing experiences and impressions.

Reading

You can understand texts that consist mainly of high frequency every day or job-related language. You can understand the description of events, feelings and wishes in personal letters.

LEVEL B2

Spoken interaction

You can interact with a degree of fluency and spontaneity that makes regular interaction with native speakers quite possible. You can take an active part in discussion in familiar contexts, accounting for and sustaining your views.

Spoken production

You can present clear, detailed descriptions on a wide range of subjects related to your field of interest. You can explain a viewpoint on a topical issue giving the advantages and disadvantages of various options.

Listening

You can understand extended speech and lectures and follow even complex lines of argument provided the topic is reasonably familiar.

You can understand most TV news and current affairs programmes. You can understand the majority of films in standard dialect.

Writing

You can write clear, detailed text on a wide range of subjects related to my interests. You can write an essay or report, passing on information or giving reasons in support of or against a particular point of view. You can write letters highlighting the personal significance of events and experiences.

Reading

You can read articles and reports concerned with contemporary problems in which the writers adopt particular attitudes or viewpoints.

You can understand contemporary literary prose.

LEVEL C1

C

You can express yourself fluently and spontaneously without much obvious searching for expressions. You can use language flexibly and effectively for social and professional purposes. You can formulate ideas and opinions with precision and relate your contribution skilfully to those of other speakers.

Spoken production

You can present clear, detailed descriptions of complex subjects integrating sub themes, developing particular points and rounding off with an appropriate conclusion.

Listening

You can understand extended speech even when it is not clearly structured and when relationships are only implied and not signalled explicitly.

You can understand television programmes and films without too much effort.

Writing

You can express yourself in clear, well-structured text, expressing points of view at some length. You can write about complex subjects in a letter, an essay or a report, underlining what you consider to be the salient issues. You can select style appropriate to the reader in mind.

Reading

You can understand long and complex factual and literary texts, appreciating distinctions of style. You can understand specialised articles and longer technical instructions, even when they do not relate to your field.

LEVEL C2

Spoken interaction

You can take part effortlessly in any conversation or discussion and have a good familiarity with idiomatic expressions and colloquialisms.

You can express yourself fluently and convey finer shades of meaning precisely.

If you do have a problem you can backtrack and restructure around the difficulty so smoothly that other people are hardly aware of it.

Spoken production

You can present a clear, smoothly-flowing description or argument in a style appropriate to the context and with an effective logical structure which helps the recipient to notice and remember significant points.

Listening

You have no difficulty in understanding any kind of spoken language, whether live or broadcast, even when delivered at fast native speed, provided. You have some time to get familiar with the accent.

Writing

You can write clear, smoothly-flowing text in an appropriate style. You can write complex letters, reports or articles which present a case with an effective logical structure which helps the recipient to notice and remember significant points. You can write summaries and reviews of professional or literary works.

Reading

You can read with ease virtually all forms of the written language, including abstract, structurally or linguistically complex texts such as manuals, specialised articles and literary works.
